

ELAA congratulates the incoming Andrews government in Victoria

27 November, 2022

With the result of the 2022 Victorian election now clear, Early Learning Association Australia (ELAA) would like to congratulate the Australian Labor Party on forming a government.

“ELAA looks forward to working with the Andrews government on the issues that affect Early Childhood Education and Care (ECEC) providers, workers, families and children in Victoria,” said ELAA Acting CEO, Megan O’Connell.

“We are especially committed to representing our members to the new government on key matters such as ensuring our sector has the skilled and rewarded workforce required to deliver on key ECEC reforms such as free kindergarten, cheaper childcare, and the roll out of 30 hours of Pre-Prep in Victoria over the next decade.

“We also want to make sure the most vulnerable children in our community do not miss out on the life-long benefits of a quality early childhood education and we’ll be a leading advocate and advisor to the government to ensure those children are not forgotten.”
